DR. ALFRED S. EGGE DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Dr. Alfred S. Egge, 49, professor of biology and a member of the Cal State, San Bernardino faculty since 1966, died at 1 p.m., Sunday in Houston, Tex., following a short illness.

He had been hospitalized at the Anderson Cancer Clinic for about a week. Prior to that he had received experimental treatment on an out-patient basis. Dr. Egge had experienced minor symptoms in August and the inoperable brain tumors were discovered in September.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m., Friday, Oct. 22 in the Church of the Valley in Apple Valley. The church is located across from the Apple Valley Inn on Highway 18. Instead of flowers, the family prefers donations to a scholarship fund for his heirs. Details, which are not complete now, will be furnished in the Friday Bulletin.

A gentle man highly respected by colleagues and students, Dr. Egge had been involved in the life of the college since he arrived in September 1966. He had served on the college RPT committee from 1974 through the present, was elected to the Faculty Senate and served a year as vice chair, served on the faculty affairs committee of the Faculty Senate three different times and was on numerous other committees. He was a member of the 1972 Commission to Review Academic Goals and Programs and other ad hoc committees. Dr. Egge was coordinator of biology from 1968 to 1971 and chair of the Biology Department from 1971-73.

His most recent college service was as a member of the Presidential Selection Advisory Committee which screened candidates for the college's second president.

Prior to coming to Cal State, Dr. Egge was an assistant research physiologist at the University of California, San Francisco Medical Center 1964-66 and assistant professor of biology at Long Beach State College 1961-64. He earned his B.A. in biology in 1957 from Long Beach State, his M.A. in zoology in 1959 and his Ph.D. in zoology and biochemistry in 1962, both from the University of Arizona. He had authored various articles in professional journals.

He was a member of various professional organizations including the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, Society of the Sigma Xi, American Physiological Society, New York Academy of Science and American Society of Zoologists.

Dr. Egge is survived by his widow, Janet; a son, Eric, an accountant in Visalia; a daughter, Dana, in Wyoming; and a daughter Erin, at home; and three grandchildren.
